Our principles

- Each child is precious
- Developing good character
- Delivering the best rates of academic progress
- Engendering care, happiness & love

Our purpose

- Pupils acquire a deep desire to learn, engaging with the roots of the learning process.
- Pupils develop values that will shape their living both within and without the school.
- Pupils will experience awe and wonder, and consider both spiritual and human dimensions.

Our precepts

- We are a school that puts the child at the centre of our thinking.
- We shall maintain our standing as a middle school.
- We are a Church of England school which is fully inclusive of all faiths and beliefs.
- We will maintain our Christian distinctiveness and our values.
- We continue to be relentless in the development of the school as a learning community.
- We prepare pupils for their next stage of education and a life of learning.
- We believe teachers are also learners and learn from each other to benefit our pupils.
- We seek to work with like minded settings to benefit the children and wider community.
- We have the highest expectations of ourselves and of each other.

The values we share as a school community embody the facets of human interaction within a mutually supportive society which we seek to promote. We believe these values are espoused by people of any mainstream British faith, and by individuals who do not hold a personal faith belief.

Spirituality is reaching towards God, connecting with each other and the world, in love.
